

Recently I filled out information to have my name place on the No Call List (about 2 months ago). For a while calls became quite infrequent but in the last two weeks have increased again. These calls are very annoying as I get calls after I have gone to bed (I get up at 4:00 am for work during the week!), so go to bed early. At times when I can sleep later, they begin calling at 8 a.m. Then on weekends that is another nuisance! My ringer must remain on all the time, because of family health issues. Thank you.
